

Key questions for superiors: me and my subordinate managers

Were any agreements made in the last talk about teamwork with you and subordinate managers? How were these implemented?

1. What is the working climate between me and my subordinate managers like, e.g. in terms of atmosphere and the way people behave and speak to each other?
2. How do I support my subordinate managers? Do I provide enough help and support?
3. Is there a system in place to cover work in the event of holidays, illness or other absences that your subordinate managers are involved in? How well does this mutual substitution system work?
4. How do we deal with conflict together?